Monarchs, Ministers, and Maps David Buisseret, 1992-12-15 These diverse essays investigate political factors behind the rapid development of cartography in Renaissance Europe and its impact on emerging European nations. By 1500 a few rulers had already discovered that better knowledge of their lands would strengthen their control over them; by 1550, the cartographer's art had become an important instrument for bringing territories under the control of centralized government. Throughout the following century increasing governmental reliance on maps demanded greater accuracy and more sophisticated techniques. This volume, a detailed survey of the political uses of cartography between 1400 and 1700 in Europe, answers these questions: When did monarchs and ministers begin to perceive that maps could be useful in government? For what purposes were maps commissioned? How accurate and useful were they? How did cartographic knowledge strengthen the hand of government? By focusing on particular places and periods in early modern Europe, the chapters offer new insights into the growth of cartography as a science, the impetus behind these developments - often rulers attempting to expand their power - and the role of mapmaking in European history. The essay on Poland reveals that cartographic progress came only under the impetus of powerful rulers; another explores the French monarchy's role in the burst of scientific cartography that marked the opening of the splendid century. Additional chapters discuss the profound influence of cartographic ideas on the English aristocracy during the sixteenth century, the relation of progress in mapmaking to imperialistic goals of the Spanish and Austrian Habsburgs, and the supposed primacy of Italian mapmaking following the Renaissance. Contributors to this volume are Peter Barber, David Buisseret, John Marino, Michael J. Mikos, Geoffrey Parker, and James Vann. These essays were originally presented as the Kenneth Nebenzahl, Jr., Lectures in the History of Cartography at the Newberry Library.

Il Mediterraneo delle città Autori Vari, 2011-02-22T00:00:00+01:00 «Cuore di un mondo umano assai più vasto dei suoi immediati contorni», «complesso di mari» la cui «storia non è separabile dal mondo terrestre che l'avvolge» – come scriveva Fernand Braudel – il Mediterraneo è tante realtà insieme: è un insieme di paesaggi e di città; è geografia, storia, simbolo, metafora. Di questo mondo multiforme e poliedrico, i saggi qui raccolti hanno scelto di privilegiare l'osservazione delle realtà urbane, attraverso la quale è possibile cogliere le specificità e differenze, le discontinuità e fratture, ma anche le dinamiche di interazione reciproca, i processi di integrazione ed esclusione, e, soprattutto, comprendere le elaborazioni e rappresentazioni collettive dell'«altro». Sempre sulla scorta braudeliana, protagoniste di questo tentativo di lettura dei contesti urbani mediterranei sono le due discipline tradizionalmente impegnate a decifrare le strutture territoriali: la geografia e la storia, che mai come in questo caso rivelano le loro profonde interconnessioni e interdipendenze. All'interno di questa prospettiva si è tuttavia cercato di presentare una pluralità di approcci e punti di vista per dare conto della complessità dello scenario analizzato, ma anche nell'intento di offrire spunti di riflessione e confronto e di proporre nuove categorie interpretative.

Modernizzazione e potere locale Pierluigi Totaro, 2012 A lungo esponente di punta e uomo di governo della Democrazia cristiana, dalla metà degli anni Quaranta alla fine degli anni Cinquanta Fiorentino Sullo condusse un'intensa azione politica in provincia di Avellino, coniugando esercizio del potere e progettualità politica, visione generale e pratica di governo, appelli programmatici e integrazione clientelare, distribuzione discrezionale e razionale delle risorse, programmazione, decisione e gestione tecnica, politica e amministrativa degli interventi pubblici e degli enti a esso preposti, ferreo controllo e modernizzazione efficiente del territorio. Per oltre un quindicennio egli intese in questo modo affrontare e risolvere il dilemma, tipico di ogni élite modernizzante, tra conservazione e trasformazione, comprensione di presupposti, codici, caratteri tradizionali, persistenti e ineludibili del rapporto tra politica e società, e orientamento al cambiamento politico e allo sviluppo socio-economico di una periferia arretrata.

In volo nel passato. Aerofotografia e cartografia archeologica, 2005-05-01 Nella tradizione degli studi italiani sui paesaggi archeologici è praticamente assente la ricognizione aerea condotta direttamente da archeologi che tramite aeroplani da turismo documentano le emergenze con la fotografia obliqua. La causa principale di questa lacuna è da attribuire alla legislazione del 1939. Con la fine del 2000 anche gli archeologi italiani dispongono dell'opportunità di utilizzare questa metodologia di ricerca di cui è ben nota l'efficacia in tutta l'Europa centro settentrionale. Il presente volume, In volo nel passato, rappresenta il primo manuale italiano nel quale sono esposti i concetti di base, le metodologie e le applicazioni della ricognizione aerea esplorativa. Terminati capitoli dedicati al volo il volume affronta centrali quali il processo di interpretazione e di restituzione grafica delle evidenze in traccia. Uno spazio consistente è lasciato alla presentazione di una rassegna di esempi italiani allo scopo di illustrare potenzialità e metodi della ricognizione aerea e della fotografia obliqua. Il lavoro si conclude con una selezione di articoli presentati a Siena nella primavera del 2001 che affrontano le nuove metodologie di telerilevamento che gli autori ritengono saranno protagoniste dei prossimi anni.

L'arte di costruire in Abruzzo Anna Di Nucci,2016-01-03T00:00:00+01:00 L'architettura tradizionale dell'Abruzzo ha sempre fatto un grande uso della pietra, soprattutto calcarea, dando vita ad una civiltà costruttiva di alto livello, malgrado i gravi danni inferti dai terremoti ricorrenti. Questo lavoro di Anna Di Nucci approfondisce il tema delle tecniche costruttive storiche nell'area appenninica centrale, esaminando il patrimonio di edilizia religiosa della antica diocesi di Valva e Sulmona, in un periodo ampio che va dal pieno Medioevo al Settecento. L'area considerata è collocata in una posizione nodale per gli scambi commerciali e culturali di ogni epoca e presenta una sua netta identità architettonica. Grazie ad una conoscenza capillare del territorio e ad una schedatura analitica di monumenti spesso poco noti o addirittura del tutto ignorati, il volume restituisce tipologie e tecniche costruttive, ma anche la storia edilizia complessiva di una città e del suo circondario. Il lavoro rivela la compresenza di fattori diversi nella costituzione del patrimonio locale: innanzitutto il sapere tecnico ereditato dai popoli italici e dal mondo romano; poi le conoscenze apportate dalle comunità monastiche e degli avvicendamenti dinastici; infine, gli spostamenti di maestranze provenienti dalle varie regioni italiane e da Oltralpe. Emergono così alcune costanti, come la persistenza dell'opera quadrata in pietra, che assume il valore di una continuazione di modi costruttivi antichi, ripresa e variata nelle varie epoche, sempre con una notevole capacità di adattamento alle mutevoli esigenze. Lo studio delle tecniche murarie diviene così parte di una più vasta arte del costruire, con l'obiettivo della sua valorizzazione e trasmissione alle generazioni future. Anna Di Nucci è architetto, specialista in Restauro dei monumenti (2002) e dottore di Ricerca in Conservazione dei Beni Architettonici (XVII ciclo, 2005), presso la Facoltà di Architettura dell'Università degli Studi di Chieti e Pescara, dove svolge attività di ricerca. Ha pubblicato studi e articoli sul patrimonio architettonico abruzzese e in
