Ports in the Medieval European Atlantic Eduardo Aznar Vallejo,2021 Presents a wealth of original research findings on how medieval ports actually worked, providing new insights on shipping, trade, port society and culture, and systems of regional and international integration.

Culture and Society in Medieval Galicia ,2015-07-28 In Culture and Society in Medieval Galicia, twenty-three international authors examine Galicia's changing place in Iberia, Europe, and the Mediterranean and Atlantic worlds from late antiquity through the thirteenth century. With articles on art and architecture; religion and the church; law and society; politics and historiography; language and literature; and learning and textual culture, the authors introduce medieval Galicia and current research on the region to medievalists, Hispanists, and students of regional culture and society. The cult of St. James, Santiago Cathedral, and the pilgrimage to Compostela are highlighted and contextualized to show how Galicia's remoteness became the basis for a paradoxical centrality in medieval art, culture, and religion. Contributors are Jeffrey A. Bowman, Manuel Castiñeiras, James D'Emilio, Thomas Deswarte, Pablo C. Díaz, Emma Falque, Amélia P. Hutchinson, Amancio Isla, Henrik Karge, Melissa R. Katz, Michael Kulikowski, Fernando López Sánchez, Luis R. Menéndez Bueyes, William D. Paden, Francisco Javier Pérez Rodríguez, Ermelindo Portela, Rocío Sánchez Ameijeiras, Adeline Rucquoi, Ana Suárez González, Purificación Ubric, Ramón Villares, John Williams †, and Roger Wright.

The History of Urban Planning in Spain, Portugal and Morocco Carmen Hass-Klau,2025-09-08 This book includes a historic overview of urban planning in the Iberian Peninsula and Morocco from 700 AD until the 20th century. Under Muslim rule, there was an urban sophistication which was unfamiliar in the Christian world. The conquest of Granada and the discovery of America was seen as the beginning of a new era but this book presents a different view of Spain and Portugal which does not equate with the glamorous picture usually painted. Chapters detail the untold story of Muslim refugees, who founded towns in Morocco, and how the conflicts between Morocco and Spain started not only politically but also in terms of town planning, when Spain took over the Moroccan north. The history of Islamic city planning shows more consistency compared to the Christian equivalent, which became dominant worldwide, whereas the Islamic approach is mainly forgotten. Despite this, the change from Islamic to Christian cities was extremely slow regardless of the power of the church and the wealth which came from abroad. In tracing this history, this book seeks to highlight the past in order to learn from it and move towards building a future of livable cities. This book will be of interest to students and instructors of planning history, urban planning and human geography and to people who are generally interested in history and cities.

Early Bourbon Spanish America , 2013-05-23 The years between the accession of the house of Bourbon to the Spanish throne in 1700 and the coronation of Carlos III in 1759 have often been bundled up, and dismissed, together with the later years of Habsburg rule. Growing out of the first Anglophone academic workshop to focus exclusively on Early Bourbon Spanish America, this collective volume gives prominence to the first half of the eighteenth century as a distinct historical period. Discussing from different methodological and geographical perspectives the ways in which the Bourbon succession, international competition over access to Spanish American resources, and war affected the Indies, the contributors examine some of the key changes experienced in Spanish America at the local, provincial and imperial level.

Vernacular and Earthen Architecture: Conservation and Sustainability Camilla Mileto, Fernando Vegas López-Manzanares, Lidia García-Soriano, Valentina Cristini, 2017-09-01 Vernacular architecture in general and earthen architecture in particular, with their rich variety of forms worldwide, are custodians of the material culture and identity of the peoples who built them. In addition, they are widely recognized as ancestral examples of sustainability in all their variants and interpretations, and the architecture of the present ought to learn from these when designing the sustainable architecture of the future. The conservation of these architectures – seemingly simple yet full of wisdom – is to be undertaken now given their intrinsic value and their status as genuine examples of sustainability to be learnt from and interpreted in contemporary architecture. Vernacular and earthen architecture: Conservation and Sustainability will be a valuable source of information for academics and professionals in the fields of Environmental Science, Civil Engineering, Construction and Building Engineering and Architecture.

The Globalization of Merchant Banking before 1850 Manuel Llorca-Jaña, 2017-07-05 London merchant bankers emerged during the 1820s in the wake of financial turmoil caused by the wars of American Independence, the Napoleonic campaigns and the Anglo-American war of 1812. Though the majority of merchant bankers remained cautious in their affairs, Huth & Co established an impressive global network of trade and lending, dealing with over 6,000 correspondents in more than seventy countries. Based on archival research, this comparative study provides a new chronology of early nineteenth-century commercial and financial expansion. Huth & Co. were truly market-makers and key intermediaries of commodities and capital flows in the international economy. This is an important example of a firm shaping globalisation well before the transport and communication revolution of the last quarter of the nineteenth century. But rather than a case study, this is a comparative study concerned with the commercial and financial activities of the leading merchant-bankers of the period. This book will be of great interest to business and economic historians interested in the nature of the early decades of the first globalization.

Building bridges in a global economy, 2008-06-17 La Universidad de Salamanca acogió la organización del XXII Congreso Anual de la Academia Europea de Dirección y Economía de la Empresa (AEDEM) y el VI Internacional Conference de la International Academy of Business Disciplines (IABD). Este Congreso constituye una nueva oportunidad para compartir e impulsar el desarrollo del conocimiento. Más de 500 investigadores y docentes europeos y americanos han participado con sus trabajos de investigación, y han enriquecido con sus comentarios y discusión las sesiones del Congreso, proporcionando nuevas perspectivas que permiten desarrollar las teorías básicas, mejorar la competitividad de las empresas y favorecer el desarrollo económico y el bienestar social. “En este siglo XXI donde la complejidad es la nota diferenciadora, se genera una paradoja: operar con una lógica global en mercados heterogéneos. El tamaño y el valor del “nuevo mercado” van a constituir ambos la piedra angular de la nueva estrategia global de la empresa, desplazándose el objeto de estudio, al movimiento de fondos, a los beneficios, al capital, a los bienes, a los servicios, al acceso y a las personas.” (Dr. Camilo Prado, Presidente de AEDEM) ESIC Editorial ha recogido en esta obra las más de 150 ponencias y comunicaciones que fueron presentadas en el Congreso, en idioma inglés o español. En el libro se encuentra una sinopsis de cada trabajo y en el CD que acompaña a la publicación aparecen los textos completos.
