Of Intense Brightness Peter Adam, 2008-06-11 Be uncommon Christians . . . that is, eminently holy, self-denying, cross-bearing, Bible, everyday Christians. So James Brainerd Taylor (1801-1829) encouraged others to be, and so he strived to be himself. Of Intense Brightness reveals aspects of Taylor's uncommon Christianity by allowing the Princeton and Yale-educated evangelist to speak for himself. By means of forty-five selected and edited letters and journal entries of Taylor's (written from ages fourteen to twenty-seven), readers will obtain a unique glimpse into the inner workings of an evangelical Protestant spirituality that was, according to nineteenth-century Princeton Seminary professor Samuel Miller, so uniform, that we had only, as it were, one face, and that of intense brightness to behold.

Written Also for Our Sake James W. Aageson, 1993-01-01 Describes the interpretation of scripture in Paul's letters in terms of a conversation, focusing on his views of Abraham, Israel, Adam, and Christ

The New Frontiers Olayinka Philip-Aina, 2024-12-02 The New Frontiers boldly tackles one of the most pressing questions facing Christians today: How can faith meaningfully intersect with our rapidly evolving postmodern world? This thought-provoking exploration unveils a vision where Christian principles and modern progress don't just coexist—but Christianity thrives; impacting the world and changing lives even as it fosters genuine altruistic societal advancement. Now and in the years to come, Artificial Intelligence, Robotics, Gene Editing, emerging sources of endless energy, ultra-sophisticated other-worldly warfare and other scientific advancements will reshape our daily lives. As these advancements converge upon humanity's existing socio-cultural constructs, Christians will require God's wisdom and spiritual know-how to engage with contemporary society without compromising faith or divine calling. Drawing from biblical wisdom, it presents a framework for Christians to excel in science, technology, enterprise, and governance while remaining true to their divine purpose, allegiance to God and spiritual convictions. From New Frontiers, readers will understand how to lean on God, His Spirit and His Word to: Navigate the coming waves of societal transformation and understand their implications for faith and Christian Ministry Become the 'salt of the earth' in ways that resonate with today's global challenges Discover how to leverage their unique gifts and talents in service of both God and humanity Explore concrete pathways for expressing Christian values in an increasingly postmodern world Addressing Christian Ministry at the intersection of faith, future societal trends, and transformation. The New Frontiers offers fresh insights for living out divine calling in an age at the cusp of unprecedented change.

Rhetorical Argumentation in Biblical Texts Anders Eriksson, Thomas H. Olbricht, Walter Übelacker, 2002-06-01 In the latest volume in the Emory Studies in Early Christianity series, the contributors seek a better understanding of how various biblical authors present their arguments, support their claims, and attempt to persuade their readers. A century ago the rhetorical analysis of texts focused on the study of rhetorical figures in texts (elocutio). In the mid-twentieth century, scholars such as James Muilenburg, Hans Dieter Betz, and Wilhelm Wuellner introduced biblical scholars to the illustrious tradition of rhetorical study. These scholars tended to focus on the arrangement of the texts themselves (dispositio). During the last ten years, however, interpreters have increasingly studied the rhetorical argumentation in texts. The authors in this volume examine rhetorical argumentation in the Hebrew Bible, the Gospels, the Pauline letters, and the Book of Revelation, offering striking new readings of these materials. Contributors include: J. David Hester (Amador), Center for Rhetoric and Hermeneutics; R. Dean Anderson, Valkenburg, The Netherlands; Harold W. Attridge, Yale Divinity School; L. Gregory Bloomquist, St. Paul University, Ottawa; Michael R. Cosby, Messiah College; Rodney K. Answer to the Pelagians Saint Augustine, Roland J. Teske, 1999 The four works printed in this volume reply to a series of problems which various Catholic monks of Africa and Gaul found with Augustine's doctrine of grace and predestination. They do not deal directly with Pelagianism, but are clearly related to the anti-Pelagian works of Augustine in their discussions of the doctrines on grace and predestination. The monks who raised these questions, however, posed them as difficulties they faced in accepting these doctrines, not as an overt desire to contradict Augustine and the Church, as the heretics did. The first two works, Grace and Free Choice and Rebuke and Grace, respond to problems at Hadrumetum where a group of monks thought that Augustine's teaching on grace destroyed free choice and human merits and eliminated the possibility of anyone giving rebukes and exhortations. The second two works, The Predestination of the Saints and The Gift of Perseverance, reply to the letters of Prosper of Aquitaine and Hilary. They reported to Augustine the objections of various persons in monastic groups in Gaul who held that the beginning of faith and the initiative for salvation came from the human will, not from God. These monks also rejected Augustine's doctrine that divine predestination and the grace of final perseverance are utterly gratuitous gifts of God. In his responses to the monks' concerns, Augustine depends on Scripture to prove his points. He encourages his questioners to pray for understanding and to thank God for the understanding they have so far--which is surely a free gift of God, as are, he emphasizes, grace and eternal life.

Works of Martin Luther, with Introductions and Notes (Volume I) Martin Luther, 2019-05-20 No historical study of current issues—in politics or social science or theology—can far proceed without bringing the student face to face with the principles asserted by the Reformation of the Sixteenth Century and its great leader, Martin Luther. He has had many critics and many champions, but neither his critics nor his champions feel that the last word concerning him has been spoken, for scarcely a year passes that does not witness the publication of a new biography. Had Luther been nothing more than a man of his own time and his own nation the task of estimating him would long since have been completed. A few exhaustive treatises would have answered all demands. But the Catalogue of the British Museum, published in 1894, contains over two hundred folio pages, averaging about thirty-five titles to the page, of books and pamphlets written either by or about him, that have been gathered into this single collection, in a land foreign to the sphere of his labors, and this list has been greatly augmented since 1894. Above all other historical characters that have appeared since the first years of Christianity, he is a man of the present day no less than of the day in which he lived. But Luther can be properly known and estimated only when he is allowed to speak for himself. He should be seen not through the eyes of others, but through our own. In order to judge the man we must know all sides of the man, and read the heaviest as well as the lightest of his works, the more scientific and theological as well as the more practical and popular, his informal letters as well as his formal treatises. We must take account of the time of each writing and the circumstances under which it was composed, of the adversaries against whom he was contending, and of the progress which he made in his opinions as time went on. The great fund of primary sources which the historical methods of the last generation have made available should also be laid under contribution to shed light upon his statements and his attitude toward the various questions involved in his life-struggles.
