[GA4] Get started with attribution - Analytics Help The data-driven attribution model assigns credit based on how the addition of each ad interaction to the path changes the estimated key event probability. The data-driven attribution algorithm uses features including time between the ad interaction and the key event, format type, and other query signals to calculate this credit.

About data-driven attribution model for Google Analytics 4 actions

A data-driven attribution (DDA) model analyzes real data about user interactions, unique to your search campaign, to learn how to distribute credit for conversions across all interactions in a conversion path. This allows you to optimize your bids and determine the most efficient advertising spend for your goals.

About attribution models - Google Ads Help Data-driven: Distributes credit for the conversion based on your past data for this conversion action. It's different from the other models, in that it uses your account's data to calculate the actual contribution of each interaction across the conversion path. The "Data-driven" model is the default attribution model for most conversion actions.

Create a data-driven attribution model - Google Help Only an admin level user at the manager or sub-manager account can create a data-driven attribution model (DDA) model.
