Introduction | Frigate Frigate Introduction Recommended hardware Planning a New Installation Installation Updating Camera setup Video pipeline Glossary Guides Getting started Configuring go2rtc Home Assistant notifications Home Assistant network storage Setting up a reverse proxy Recommended hardware | Frigate Cameras that output H.264 video and AAC audio will offer the most compatibility with all features of Frigate and Home Assistant. It is also helpful if your camera supports multiple substreams to allow different resolutions to be used for detection, streaming, and recordings without re-encoding. Models | Frigate Frigate+ offers models trained on images submitted by Frigate+ users from their security cameras and is specifically designed for the way Frigate NVR analyzes video footage. Installation | Frigate If you already have Frigate installed as a Home Assistant Add-on, check out the getting started guide to configure Frigate. Home Assistant Integration | Frigate This is potentially useful when Frigate is behind a reverse proxy, and/or when the default stream port is otherwise not accessible to Home Assistant (e.g. firewall rules). Generative AI | Frigate Download a couple of different thumbnails or snapshots from Frigate and try new things in the playground to get descriptions to your liking before updating the prompt in Frigate. Getting started | Frigate In order to review activity in the Frigate UI, recordings need to be enabled. To enable recording video, add the record role to a stream and enable it in the config. Updating | Frigate Keeping Frigate up to date ensures you benefit from the latest features, performance improvements, and bug fixes. The update process varies slightly depending on your installation method (Docker, Home Assistant Addon, etc.).
