This occurs when the internal energy of the solid increases, typically by the application of heat or pressure, which increases the substance's temperature to the melting point. What is the process of melting? - Physics Network May 11, 2023 · Melting is a process that causes a substance to change from a solid to a liquid. Melting occurs when the molecules of a solid speed up enough that the motion overcomes the attractions so that the molecules can move past each other as a liquid. 13.3: Melting, Freezing, Sublimation, and Deposition Melting is the conversion of a solid to a liquid. When a solid is converted directly to a gas, the process is known as sublimation. The reverse processes are freezing and deposition, respectively. ... Melting occurs when a substance absorbs heat energy, causing its particles to vibrate more rapidly until they break free from their fixed positions in the solid state. Different substances have different melting points; for example, ice melts at 0°C while iron melts at about 1,538°C. Melting: Definition, Characteristics, and Melting Point Values Melting is the physical process by which a solid turns into a liquid after absorbing enough heat.
