Set against the backdrop of a rapidly evolving British society, this collection invites readers into a labyrinth of deceit and revelation, employing a prose style that deftly balances melodrama with keen observations of contemporary life. Readers will find themselves immersed in the atmospheric narratives that reflect the era's fascination with crime and justice. Mary Elizabeth Braddon (1835-1915) was a pioneering novelist and playwright, often regarded as a key figure in the development of the sensation genre. Influenced by the tumultuous socio-political changes of her time, Braddon's works often mirrored her views on gender, morality, and the human psyche. Her own experiences as a successful writer amid a male-dominated literary landscape propelled her to challenge conventional norms, making her stories not just thrilling narratives but also potent social commentaries. In a Box Merry Morash,2024-02-13 In a Box draws on the experiences of more than one hundred Michigan women on probation or parole to analyze how court, state, and federal policies hamper the state's efforts at gender-responsive reforms in community supervision. Closely narrating the stories of six of these women, Merry Morash shows how countervailing influences keep reform-oriented probation and parole agents and the women they supervise "in a box." Supervisory approaches that attempt to move away from punitive frameworks are limited or blocked by neoliberal social policies. Inspired by the interviewees' reflections on their own experiences, the book offers recommendations for truly effective reforms within and outside the justice system.
